FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

SAGE Dining Services® now serving Judson College

The Eagles soar to new heights with a change in the Sara Hunt Christenberry Dining Hall.

Marion, AL (August 19, 2013)-SAGE Dining Services® is pleased to welcome Judson College to its client list. SAGE has taken over food service operations at the nation's fifth oldest women's college.

"This is an exciting time for SAGE. This opportunity will continue to help SAGE grow on the college and university level," says Paco Rodriguez, President and founder of SAGE Dining Services®. "We are providing Judson with a top notch dining program that is both nutritious and flavorful while environmentally conscious at the same time."

From the decor to the way food is prepared, the change in the Sara Hunt Christenberry Dining Hall at Judson College is already noticeable. "We are taking Judson to the next level," says SAGE District Manager Brian Kopp. "We are using as many fresh locally grown and sourced ingredients as we can. Just as we have done at other SAGE locations, we will be planting an herb garden on campus."

SAGE cooks primarily from scratch, using a batch cooking process; that means only cooking what we need at a specific time. Kopp says, "By using this method, SAGE reduces the amount of preservatives in its food and can assure students that there is no difference between what the first person in line ate and what the last person eats."

SAGE is constantly looking for ways to reduce its carbon footprint and this process drastically cuts the amount of waste produced by our kitchens.
